HOLDUP ROBBS A SALT LAKE CAR

Salt Lake, March 14.—A lone holdup staked a nickel against $20 and won, when he took a ride out and part way back on the Jordan bridge car at 11 o'clock last night.

The $20 was taken from Conductor James Hadley of car No. 433. Three passengers were not robbed, but admonished to keep silent.

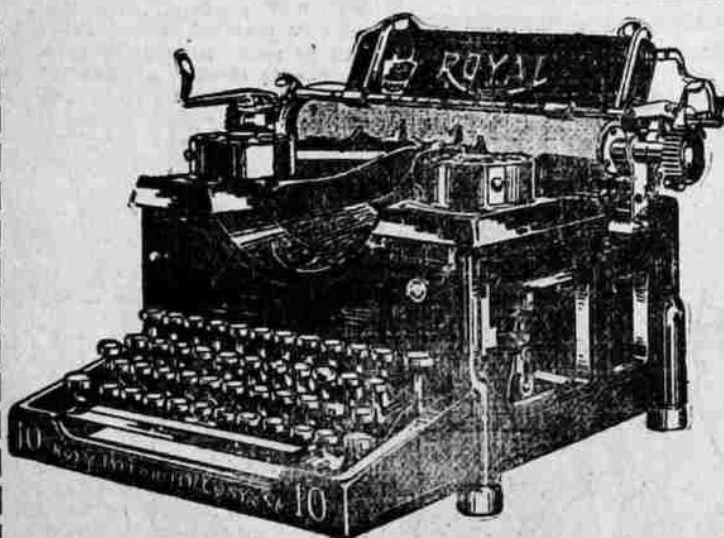

"If I marry that girl she will sure have to move to another part of the city," is said to have been the remark of one young man after the holdup had left the car.

The robbery occurred at Thirteenth West and Second South streets as the car was returning from the end of the line, the car stopping to take on a passenger, who proved to be the holdup. The man wore no mask.

Conductor Hadley recognized the man as one who got off at Thirteenth West on the trip out. Instead of paying the customary nickel as he did on boarding the car up town earlier in the evening, the holdup presented a large pistol at the conductor and ordered him to turn his back and hold his hands up. Quickly he took the money from the change carrier.

The holdup was the first passenger on the return trip. After robbing the conductor, he stood on the rear platform with him. C. A. Rasmussen, an employee of the Salt Lake Paint & Glass company, happened along the car shortly after the holdup. He was greeted by the man with the pistol and ordered to take a seat and keep quiet.

J. B. Cardell of 731 South Ninth East street got on the car at Eighth West street and received like treatment. At Eighth West street the car turned north to First South street and again east on First South street and stopped at Seventh West street.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED

Washington, March 13.—Just as society was despairing of an official announcement from the White house about the reported engagement of Miss Eleanor Wilson to William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, a statement was given out tonight by the president's secretary, Mr. Tumulty, to this effect:

"The president and Mrs. Wilson announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Eleanor Randolph, to William Gibbs McAdoo."

The few words made certain that the wedding bells will again chime in the White house for the second time in the Wilson administration within the space of six months, and that Miss Eleanor Wilson will be the fourteenth White house bride.

The briefness of the announcement was much commented on, because when the engagement of Miss Jessie Wilson to Mr. Sayre was announced it was with a wealth of detail and circumstance. It is understood that the wedding day has not been fixed. Rumor has it, however, that it will occur at a very early date, either in Easter week or when the June roses blossom about the White house grounds.

It was impossible to learn whether the wedding would be a family one or a partake of the public nature of the Jessie Wilson wedding. At any rate, it is considered certain that Miss Margaret Wilson, whose own engagement has been frequently rumored to Boyd Fisher of Princeton, will act as her sister's maid of honor, as she did for Mrs. Jessie Sayre.

Special interest attaches to the news from the fact that this is the first time in the history of the White house that one of a president's cabinet has won the hand of a president's daughter.

Various rumors were in circulation today as to the inception of the romance. One was that Secretary McAdoo's great-grandfather was dancing with the hand of Miss Wilson and that he danced his way into her heart. Secretary McAdoo does the hesitation waltz and the tango better than any society man in Washington and Miss Wilson and he were frequent and devoted partners.

CLAIMS CHINESE ARE PERSECUTED

Salt Lake, March 14.—More charges against the police department in connection with the arrest of Chinese for gambling, were made today at Mayor Park yesterday by J. R. Haas, an attorney, representing several Plum alley Chinese.

The mayor and the attorney engaged in a warm verbal fight, during which the latter charged that the police were violating the constitutional rights of their clients by trying to force them to leave the city by frequent arrest and persecution.

"The police are acting under orders and are doing what they are told to do," retorted the mayor. "Some undesirable have been driven out of this city and some others probably will be driven out. Your clients have constitutional rights, I admit, but so have other citizens in general; and men who violate the law are going to be harassed and arrested until they quit it or else leave the city."

Haas Makes Charge.

Haas came to the mayor on behalf of Chin John, whose arrest and detention by the police last week was the subject of an inquiry by the commission Thursday morning. Haas charged that his client had been held a prisoner for twenty-four hours without a charge and that he was finally charged with vagrancy in spite of the fact that he operates and owns a restaurant on Orpheum avenue.

"Detective Leichter told me that he would arrest John as often as he wanted," declared Haas. "Also he told Charlie Fong and Wing Jack that they would have to leave the city. These men are in business here, and are not violating any law, and are entitled to acquire property and to the pursuit of happiness. The police department has no right to drive them out of town."

Must Obey the Law.

"They are entitled to all that and more, too, but they must acquire their property and pursue their happiness by lawful methods," the mayor replied.

"But by what authority do the police presume to drive business men out of this city by persecution?" demanded Haas.

"They are not driving business men out of the city, unless those men prove undesirable residents by constant violation of the law," the mayor said. "Whatever they do, they do under orders and not by mere caprice as you intimate."

After the conference Mayor Park said he was tired of the constant charges and insinuations being hurled at the police department on the Chinese question.

"If anybody wants to start something on this subject let him go ahead," he declared. "He will have his hands full."

OREM ROAD NOW REACHES LEHI

Lehi, March 13.—Declaring that Utah county was on the verge of the greatest period of growth in its history, W. C. Orem, president of the new Salt Lake & Utah interurban, said an address here tonight that was greeted with cheer after cheer. Residents of Salt Lake and all the towns between there and Lehi came here tonight to attend a public celebration of the completion of the road to this point.

The present population of Utah county is about 30,000, said President Orem in his address. "In ten years it will be three times 30,000. Salt Lake City will spread until its limits reach the point of the mountain, and this valley will be at its very door." President Orem said the road would be electrified by May 15 and that cars would be running through to Provo by June 1. Until that time gasoline cars will be used between Salt Lake and American Fork.

The Salt Lake party, including President Orem, Governor Spry, Secretary Farrell of the Commercial club and other prominent citizens, arrived here in the special about 8 o'clock this evening. Delegations were picked up along the line at Bonanza, Taylorville, Riverton, South Jordan and West Jordan.

A large crowd of Lehi residents, headed by the Lehi brass band, greeted the arrival of the visitors. They were conducted to the tabernacle, which was crowded to capacity with more than 1500 persons. After a musical number by the band, one of the best in the state, a program of enthusiastic speeches was started.

S. W. Ross, president of the Commercial club of Lehi, introduced President James H. Clark of the Lehi stake. President Clark delivered the invocation. He was followed by Professor Karl Hopkins, whom Mr. Ross introduced as the chairman of the evening.

After some brief remarks about the history making event occasioned by the advent of the electric line, Chairman Hopkins introduced the president of the new road, W. C. Orem. Mr. Orem was greeted with enthusiasm that has seldom been equaled here.

Governor Spry followed President Orem. He told the people of Utah valley of the value he expected the new road to be, and told them also of the quiet way in which the Orems had worked on their project. He remarked that they were so quiet and unassuming that many in Salt Lake did not even know the road was being built. He complimented the enterprise of Orem & Co., and offered them his congratulations.

A. J. Evans, Judge Henry I. Moore and Will G. Farrell followed. Each one made reference to the development which should follow the construction of the interurban.

In addition to the band music, vocal solos were rendered by J. H. Hicks and Miss Lucille Bennion. Mrs. Abraham Anderson played an organ solo. Following the meeting a dance was given in a near-by hall. The visitors left for home in their special train shortly after midnight.

DID NOT HEAR CLAIM OF FOUL

By SAM P. HALL.

Chicago, Ill., March 13.—Harry Stout, referee of the sensational glove contest involving Will Ritchie and Ad Wolgast at Milwaukee last night, made an astounding statement in the presence of Tom Jones and the writer in a hotel after the battle. It certainly astounded us, and we know it did Jones, for Tom invited the official outside when he heard it. Harry declined, and Ad's manager and he apparently parted enemies.

The followers of the glove game all know by this time that Wolgast went down in the seventh round of the fight after Ritchie had clubbed him twice in the body with his right. When he landed a claim of foul. When he sank to the floor Ritchie was between him and Stout. Willie backed away and Stout walked quickly to Wolgast's side. Every ringsider was positive that Stout knew that Wolgast claimed a foul and that he refused the plea and ordered him to get up and fight, which Wolgast did, at any rate. But here is what Stout said:

"I did not know until after the fight that Wolgast claimed foul. I thought he went down from the two stomach punches and I counted four on him before he got up. I was not in a position to see the blows plainly and I did not detect a low punch, if there was one, for that reason. If I had known that Wolgast was lodging a claim of foul I would have stopped the fight then and there and called in a physician to examine him." Jones looked at Harry in amazement and then exploded. He declared that not only did Wolgast claim a foul, but that he did also, and shouted from the Wolgast corner loudly enough for the referee to hear him. Tom wound up by allowing that Stout never would officiate again in a ring contest in which he had anything to say.

Stout's statement certainly is a queer one, when it is considered that it was palpable to all anywhere near the arena that Wolgast was asking that Ritchie be disqualified for striking low.

The statement of Dr. Morter, member of the Wisconsin boxing commission, made following the fight, to the effect that Wolgast was fouled, gives Adolph an excellent alibi for the newspaper decision that went against him in the majority of the newspapers. If he really was fouled—and there is no reason to doubt Dr. Morter's official word—then he surely is the victim of a fine piece of hard luck.

The disqualification of Ritchie would have made Wolgast champion again by popular opinion. In that case he would be able to dictate to Ritchie on the weight and have a much better chance against him if they collide again. However, it's a strange thing that most of those who saw the two Ritchie body blows go home are willing to swear that each of them landed a couple of inches above the Wolgast belt line. It's a fine little mixup all around, and means that Ritchie will have to give Ad another chance in order to settle that old superiority question.
